

IndiGo Cadet Program Price Comparison

Dear Candidate,

FTA acknowledges that in order to complete the IndiGo training program, a considerable financial investment will be required by you. Therefore, we strongly advise that you take the following two factors into account:

1. Quality of training

FTA is proud to be the training provider of a number of the world's leading airlines and we are very excited to have partnered with IndiGo, another leading airline. Training at FTA means you will receive the highest level of training as demanded by these airlines. You'll have access to state of the art facilities, highly qualified instructors and a training and management team that has many years of experience in training customers from diverse cultures

2. Pricing

When comparing prices between training providers, it is very important that you understand all costs you will be incurring throughout the full training program. There are a number of costs you should plan for other than those associated directly with training, such as meals, accommodation, medicals, test fees, books etc.

FTA prides itself on being fully transparent about all costs involved that you should be planning for. The table overleaf fully discloses everything that is included in our price and we invite you to study this table and fill in and compare prices.

Please note that exchange rates are only indicative as exchange rates used at the time of printing this brochure and may vary to today's rate.

We hope that you find this table useful, and remember that you are the customer. If you are unsure of what's included in our price, challenge us to ensure you have no financial surprises that may prevent you from completing the training program within your planned budget.
